BLAIRMORE FLIER MISSING

Squadron Leader Alex. McDowell, 28-year-old son of Mr. Samuel McDowell, Blairmore manager of the Alberta Government Telephones, is reported missing in air operations over the week end.

Alex. was a former pupil of the Blairmore high school, and for a time was clerk in the Blairmore branch of Safeways. In 1937 he proceeded to England and enlisted in the air force. Last March he visited his father here, later returning to England. His wife, formerly Agnes Hutton, of Bellevue, and her two-year-old daughter, are residing in Blairmore at the home of Mr. S. McDowell.

FREE SHOW BOOSTS VICTORY LOAN

An audience that packed the theatre to the doors last Sunday evening enjoyed a free moving picture show which was sponsored by the Blairmore-Frank unit of the Fifth Victory Loan committee.

Pictures shown were Canadians Fighting in Sicily, The Happy Gang of radio fame, a film of community singing in which the audience caught the spirit and joined in the singing, led by the singing voices of members of the 157 Squadron of the Air Cadets of Canada, and a picture starring Mary Pickford, made especially by her in 1918 to boost Canada's Fifth Victory Loan of 25 years ago, and again used for the same purpose a quarter of a century later.

At intervals short appeals on behalf of the Fifth Victory Loan were made by Mayor Enoch Williams, William Arland, president of the Blairmore Local of the United Mine Workers of America, and W. H. Chappell, organizer of the Blairmore-Frank unit.

The theatre and all equipment for the showing of the pictures were generously given to the Victory Loan committee by William Cole, the proprietor, free of charge, and a hearty vote of thanks shown by a round of applause was tendered to Mr. Cole by the audience for his kindness.

Tuesday night the Blairmore-Frank unit had reached about one third of its objective of $91,000, obtained from 198 subscribers.

MINE HEARING HERE ON TUESDAY NEXT

Mr. Justice George B. O'Connor, chairman of the three-man royal commission appointed to probe coal mine wages in Alberta and British Columbia, stated last Friday that the tentative date for opening of the sittings was today, Friday, October 29th, at Calgary.

Other tentative dates are: Blairmore, Tuesday, November 2nd; Drumheller, November 4th; Nanaimo, B.C., November 8th, and Edmonton, November 12th.

STANDING OF UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

Figures issued to the press by the Unemployment Insurance Commission indicate that the balance in the unemployment insurance fund at September 30 of this year stood at $150,177,084.86, of which $144,000,000 was being held in Dominion of Canada bonds.

Gross revenue to date, plus interest earned, amounted to $151,347,402.17. Of this amount $123,197,414.80 had been contributed by employers and employees through the purchase of unemployment insurance stamps and by direct payment. The sum of $24,639,482.97 had been paid by the Dominion government as its share under the statute, and $3,510,504.40 represents interest earned.

Benefits paid since January of 1942, when benefits first became payable, totalled $1,170,317.31.

The fund was inaugurated in July of 1941, when the first employer-employee contributions became payable.

A GILT EDGE INVESTMENT

Victory Loan, like everything else that has to do with winning the war, is the nation's job. It is not a party business — it's not a government game. Speeding the Victory is everybody's job. Slacking on the Victory Loan is playing the Axis game. The nation as a whole, regardless of likes or dislikes, must put over the Fifth Victory Loan.

And in case there are some who are forgetting the simple facts of the case, remember this: The Nazis are not defeated; Japan is still terribly strong; and the war is not over. The struggle for survival is still that.

Money that is put into Bonds is not spent. Spending is restricted in order that money can be saved. The investment represents self-denial.

Victory Bonds are in a class by themselves. It is not only a duty to buy Bonds, but also an opportunity. The entire Dominion of Canada stands behind them. There is no danger that the money will be lost or that the interest will not be paid. The Canadian who does not buy Victory Bonds is passing up the chance of a lifetime to protect his own future and that of his dependents. Buy all you can and be glad of the chance.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police have taken over the policing of Innisfail, Alberta. It means a 24-hour service for seven days a week. The members of the Innisfail council are unanimous in approving of the change and feel that it will bring about a much improved condition in the community. Carl Sick, who has been town constable there for a number of years, has tendered his resignation.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

A WORD OF CAUTION

TO MEN OF MILITARY AGE AND TO THEIR EMPLOYERS

National Selective Service Civilian Regulations authorize the Minister of Labour to require that male employees furnish their employers with evidence that they have not failed to comply with National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations (i.e., the Military Call-Up).

It is intended that an order will be issued shortly, requiring employers to carry out the necessary check on their male employees, and to report any men who do not produce the required evidence of compliance.

The check up will cover every male employee who has reached the age of 18 years and six months and has not reached his 38th birthday. The man will have to show evidence in one of the following forms:—

(a) A man discharged from the Armed Forces following service during the present war should have his discharge certificate. A discharged man who has not a certificate should apply for one in the following manner:—

Army—District Officer Commanding, Military District in which discharge took place.

Air—Records Office, R.C.A.F. Headquarters, No. 5 Temporary Building, Ottawa, Ont.

Navy—Secretary of Naval Board, Ottawa, Ont.

(b) A man who has responded to a direction from a Registrar of a Divisional Mobilization Board, to report for medical examination under Mobilization Regulations, should have either a certificate of unfitness or an order for postponement of military training from the Divisional Registrar. (A man entitled to either document who has lost his copies should immediately apply to the Divisional Registrar who issued the original, for a duplicate.)

(c) A man who has been rejected on application for voluntary enlistment in the Army since the beginning of the war, should have a certificate showing that he was rejected through medical unfitness. (If a man entitled to such a certificate does not possess it, he should apply to the District Military Headquarters of the District in which he applied for enlistment, in order to procure the necessary form.)

(d) A man in the designated classes who has not reached his 38th birthday, who was married as at July 15th, 1940, or who, having been married before that date, is a widower with children, must be prepared to furnish evidence, such as a marriage certificate or birth certificate of a child, to show that he was married before July 15th, 1940, and that he is now either married or is a widower with children.

(e) A man who has reported for enrolment in the Army under an Order—Military Training issued under the Mobilization Regulations and who has been rejected should have a certificate showing he was rejected through medical unfitness. If a man entitled to such certificate does not possess it, he should apply to the District Officer Commanding the Military District in which he was rejected.

(f) (i) A man who is not subject to the Mobilization Regulations because he is an enemy alien who has not made application for naturalization may obtain a certificate from a registrar of his Divisional Mobilization Board indicating that the Mobilization Regulations do not apply to him and such certificates must be obtained by all such enemy aliens.

(ii) A man who is an alien and neither a national of Belgium, Czechoslovakia, The Netherlands, Norway, Poland, the United States nor Yugoslavia and has not applied for naturalization may be relieved of his duty under Mobilization Regulations, but he gives up his right to future Canadian citizenship after the war; where such men have applied for such relief and been granted such status, certificates will be issued by registrars in appropriate cases.

This caution is issued to facilitate compliance with the order which is proposed. A reasonable interval will be allowed to permit men to provide themselves with whatever document, as referred to above, they may be entitled to hold.

Employers are requested to give notice of this proposal to their male employees, to facilitate the operation of the order when issued.

HOG RETURNS PROBLEM

The executive of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture has advised Hon. J. G. Gardiner, federal minister, that failing a supplementary announcement by himself indicating a further increase in hog returns under the 1944-45 British bacon contract, Alberta producers are on the way out of large scale hog production.

The Federation officials placed on record the facts that the magnitude of the liquidations likely in this province may threaten even the production of Alberta's share of the new two-year total of 900 million pounds of bacon and ham for Britain. Hope was expressed that since the price announcement of October 22nd, covering Mr. Gardiner's declaration concerning the new British bacon contract, there may yet be effected a satisfactory compromise between the hog price position taken by the minister and the price to which producers in this province and in others feel they are entitled.

CHEMISTRY'S DECALOGUE

It has been suggested that we place a sign in the chemistry laboratory containing the following:

1. Thou shalt not kill unless thou canst prove that he did spit in thy unknowns.

2. Thou shalt honor thy neighbor's olfactory sensibilities.

3. Thou shalt not pencil titrate.

4. Thou shalt not take the name of thy professor in vain.

5. Thou shalt not remain forever on the pans of thy balance.

6. Thou shalt keep thy desk spotless that thy days may be long in this laboratory.

7. Thou shalt not commit adulteration of reagents.

8. Thou shalt love thy storeroom man as thyself.

9. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's end points nor his success, nor his clean equipment, nor anything that is thy neighbor's.

10. Two days shalt thou labor, sweat and swear in the laboratory—the other days are set aside for thy professor's peace of mind, and for the conservation of thine own sanity.

REMEMBER FATHER TIME

Father time is a dual personality. He is a veritable Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. At one and the same time he is kind and he is cruel.

If you want proof of this, we need only cast our thoughts back to the days of 1915-18. Since that period Time graciously healed most of the wounded Canadian hearts which then ached in loneliness and begged piteously for one more touch of the missing hand and lips of those stilled forever in the mud of Europe. But Time also dulled our memories of the horrible pain and grief which swirled in the wake of predatory German generals.

Only fourteen years after 1918, when German viciousness began to rise again as a threat against world peace, Time blurred our minds. We do not readily recall the inhuman heart-breaking experiences of the first World War. There was no overpowering urge in our breasts to stamp out the smouldering fire of conquest before it became an unmanageable holocaust. Time had so softened our recollections of the tragedy in that short space, the reawakening of the German militaristic spirit did not warn us to meet and overpower it immediately.

Have we yet learned how wicked Time can be?

It is only four years ago since the stiff-necked goose-steppers ran bayonets through the frail bodies of old men and women in Poland, led little children into fields to shoot them down with machine gun bullets. But three years have passed since the Germans bombed old and young civilians out of the towns and cities of Belgium, to choke the highways against the approach of the opposing armies—and then bombed and machine-gunned these helpless creatures along the roads. Will we let Time make us forget that now?

It is about two weeks since the Nazi monsters looted the city of Naples and mercilessly murdered inhabitants because they expressed their dislike of the German cause. Can we forget that also?

For four years, thousands of the finest of our Canadian youth, destined to live happy lives among us, have fallen victims to German guns. Is our sorrow from their loss already cooling?

Or are we keeping fresh those bitter memories of the past since 1939, arousing in our hearts a grim determination to end this senseless parade of wars for a long, long time?

There is a message being spread throughout the land in these days of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign. Its purport is: "Let's not become complacent."

But here is a yet more potent slogan for us at this moment. It is contained in one word:

"Remember."

If we keep green the indescribable horrors of this war, if we will remember that these were perpetrated by the Germans and will be repeated again and again unless we completely crush the German militaristic spirit, we won't need any warning against complacency.

We will pour our dollars into Victory Bonds as never before, speed our work in war factories and take increasing pride in the actual job of extermination which our men are carrying out at the battle front.

Sugar Beet Production

Irrigation Areas In Southern Alberta Suited To This Industry

Sugar beet production is particularly suited to Southern Alberta's irrigation areas. In no other part of Canada can the industry be so efficiently conducted. If it can be further mechanized so that labor costs will be brought down, it is within the realm of possibility that Southern Alberta may be able to supply the bulk of Canada's sugar needs in the years to come.

Alberta is short of industries and it seems to be well worth while to encourage the development of such an industry as sugar manufacturing.

Not only does it provide a good market for a specialty farm crop and bring excellent returns to the producer, but it also gives employment to a considerable number of people in the operation of the sugar factories.—Calgary Herald.

Have Great Future

U.S. Scientists Finding Dozens Of New Uses For Feathers

A small, ambitious group of U.S. government scientists believes that the future belongs to the feather.

Feathers—100 per cent. protein—are considered on the basis of experimentation to be excellent material for plastics. The Federal Feather Committee, headed by H. L. Shrader of the Department of Agriculture, is convinced these plastics may assume myriad forms from surgical sutures to bomber noses and from lamp bases to thread for textiles. Or by a simpler process feathers may be compressed into fibreboard for insulation and soundproofing. In primitive form feathers are already doing war duty in camouflage (details a military secret) and as the warm stuffing for thousands of infantrymen's sleeping bags and aviators' jackets.

Keeps Up Brave Front

Luxury Hotel In London Doing Its Best With Menus

A Canadian officer spending a recent week-end leave in London dined at one of the famous luxury hotels, frequented in happier days by cosmopolitan millionaires. He reports that, all things considered, the institution is keeping up a brave front, but the little refinements of peacetime are represented by symbols instead of substance.

The menus, for example, are still beautifully printed, but the typography does not conceal a shortage of food and a lack of variety of which the hotel would once have been ashamed. Nor does the French into which the menus are still translated conceal the fact that the patrons are now offered more plebeian dishes than pheasant and caviar.

On the day of our correspondent's dinner, the strain of translation had broken down the maitre d'hotel. He had faithfully found French equivalents for all the dishes until he came to the sweet. That was frankly listed as "Le bread-and-butter pudding."

BIBLE TEACHINGS ON ABSTINENCE

(International Temperance Sunday)

Golden text: Beware, I pray thee, and drink no wine nor strong drink. Judges 13:4.

Lesson: Leviticus 10:1, 2, 8-11; Proverbs 31:4, 5; Luke 1:13-16.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 4.

Explanations and Comments

The Sin of Nadab and Abihu. Leviticus 10:1, 2. And: this little word with which the story begins seems to indicate that Nadab and Abihu offered "strange fire" immediately after the fire from Jehovah had consumed the appointed sacrifice where all had been done "as the Lord commanded," chapter 8. Aaron and his two sons had been consecrated as priests just a week earlier, and on this first occasion when the sons discharge their priestly function they fail to follow the prescribed regulations. From the direction to avoid strong drink given in this connection, verses 8-11, it may be assumed that they erred because intoxicated. They lighted the incense with "strange fire," not from the burning coals on the brazen altar as was the command. The Speakers' Commentary suggests that as they perished not within the tabernacle but in front of it, they may have been making an ostentatious and irreverent display of their ministration to accompany the shouts of the people. The offense for which they were immediately visited with outward punishment was thus a flagrant outrage on the solemn order of the divine service, while the cause of their offense was their use of strong drink.

The instant death that befell these young men may seem to us a great punishment for a slight sin, but we must not forget how important were forms at this stage of the people's religion, and if the priests had set the example of contempt therefor and gone unpunished, what would not the people have done? The greater their privilege, the nearer they were to God in his worship, the greater their responsibility, the graver their sin.

Aaron Warned to Abstain from Alcoholic Drink, Leviticus 10:8-11. These verses in Moffatt's translation read: When you or your sons enter into the Trysting Tent, never drink wine or liquor, lest you die: this is to be a standing rule from generation to generation, that you may distinguish what is sacred and what is profane, what is unclean and what is clean, and that you may teach the Israelites all the rules that the Eternal has given them by Moses.

Our chapter ends with these words: Aaron and his sons did all the things which the Lord commanded.

Admiralty Ruling

Petty Officer Wins The Right To Wear A Monocle

Because a Royal Navy non-commissioned officer insisted on wearing his monocle aboard ship the Admiralty had to write a new section to the Navy's general fleet orders.

The sailor who boldly declared that he had worn a monocle for four years before the war and did not intend to relinquish it is Chief Petty Officer Philip Morter.

His commanding officer found nothing in the books covering the situation and finally sought on official ruling. The Admiralty held that a rating may choose between spectacles and a monocle so long as it does not interfere with his efficient discharge of duties.

Canadian Seamen Risk Lives To Make Explosives Secure

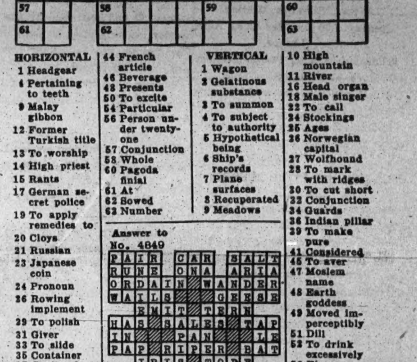

At the height of an Atlantic gale, Sub. Lt. John Misick of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve and four ratings wrestled for 2½ hours to pin down "live" depth charges which broke loose and were crashing about the deck of the corvette Celandine. Misick, 21-year-old native of Bermuda, and former university student at Halifax, volunteered with the seamen to secure the charges, although they knew these, weighing nearly a quarter-ton each, could break their legs like matchsticks. One by one, however, they were roped to the deck.

CHAPTER VIII.

SIR MAURICE BLAINE was at the Inn next night with an invitation for Master John Hale to accompany him to an exclusive club. There, as on the previous evening, cards were the diversion. This was an even more select gathering, with several imposing titles among the names of those to whom Jonathan was introduced, but once again Jonathan's hope of finding the killer of Denys was unrealized. How much longer, he wondered, must he keep this up?

He had more gold for Tucker when he returned to the Inn—and more in the days that followed. No attempt was made to save money; over and above what might be called working capital, every penny went to add to the magnificence that was making the name of John Hale a legend.

At the end of the week, Tucker announced that the house on Pall Mall was ready for occupancy, with a full staff of servants engaged. "It is my turn, now that I have a home of my own," Jonathan said to the faithful and admiring Sir Maurice, "to return the hospitality shown me by you and your friends. All of you must be my guests the first evening."

THE housewarming of Master John Hale got under way in brilliant fashion. In the polished ballroom musicians were tuning instruments already in perfect order; in the kitchens servants perspired over oven and spit. Jonathan moved among his arriving guests, greeting those he already knew, Sir Maurice Blaine at his side to present those who were still strangers.

Jonathan acknowledged an introduction to the Earl of Chelsea, an empty-faced man in flaming silks. "Egad, Master Hale," beamed Chelsea, "I have been looking forward to this meeting. What will it be worth to whisper in my ear the name of your tailor?"

"The name of the horse you are grooming for the race next month," laughed Jonathan.

"'Tis a bargain, Hale!" agreed the Earl. "Before I leave, you and I shall make an exchange of secrets."

A tall man in somber garments appeared beside the brightly hued Earl. "Good evening, Blaine," he nodded.

"Ah, your lordship!" Sir Maurice bowed. "Lord Farquhar, allow me to present our host, Master John Hale."

It was fortunate, indeed, that Lord Farquhar inclined his head once more, bowing with an elaborateness that consumed a full instant. Otherwise he would have observed the startled recognition in the eyes of Jonathan that no schooling could control. There was no mistaking that harsh face with the bony nose and grim-angled jaws. This tall man in black velvet and black silk was his lordship, with whom Jonathan had fought in the tavern at Winnset.

"I had to attend this rout," said Lord Farquhar. "They tell me, Master Hale, that you are a veritable devil at cards. I have a passion for the pasteboards myself. Now that we have become acquainted it should be easy to arrange a meeting to test our respective skills."

Sir Maurice said, "His lordship is a devil with women, too, Hale, and Satan himself with the foils."

"I heard how Hale taught Shattuck a lesson," said Farquhar. "But it is cards that interest me at the moment."

JONATHAN'S deep-set eyes lifted slowly, but by now he had his features composed, although the blood was still pounding in his ears. "I shall be at your convenience at any time, my lord," he said.

The tall man did not recognize Jonathan, a circumstance that was really no wonder. There was more than periwig and fine clothes to create in Farquhar's mind a picture entirely different from the awkward, plainly dressed young Puritan he remembered. The week of masquerade had left its mark on Jonathan, making him appear older, tainting him with an aura of cynical sophistication.

Farquhar glanced about at the assembling crowd and suddenly brightened. "You will excuse me, gentlemen? I have just spied her Grace, the Duchess Catharine, and there is something I must whisper in her pretty ear."

JONATHAN watched the tall, arrogant figure move away, unaware that his hand had stolen to his side, feeling for the sword he had discarded for the evening. Lord Farquhar! The fellow could not escape him now. Now that Jonathan knew the name of his enemy, he could find his lordship at any hour of any day or night and call him to account for the death of Monsieur Denys.

The muted music from the ballroom swelled and settled into rhythm. Sir Maurice touched Jonathan's sleeve. "Come, Master Hale, you must not miss this. The masque about to be presented will redound to your credit as an entertainer."

"There is something I must first attend to." Jonathan withdrew his arm. "Take my place among the guests, Maurice. I shall be with you as soon as possible."

Before Blaine could protest, Jonathan had strode away. Jonathan had to find Tucker. The chimney sweep, with his knowledge of London, would know the location of the residence of Lord Farquhar. While his lordship was occupied in the house on Pall Mall, Tucker and Jonathan could steal out, go to the Farquhar home and, by whatever means necessary, search the place. If they found Anne Jamieson they would take her away, then Jonathan could return here to accomplish the overdue reckoning with Farquhar.

THE search for his elusive servant brought Jonathan at length to the crowded ballroom. Perhaps if he remained still for a few minutes his man would put in an appearance. He had told the other servants to inform Tucker that the master required him.

The walls of the ballroom were lined with spectators watching the entertainment progressing in the centre of the floor. Sir Maurice had engaged a group of mummers to put on a pageant interspersed with music, dancing and song. The program was too near its end for Jonathan to grasp the meanings of gestures and pantomime, but he eyed the posturing masked figures with interest nevertheless.

Among the players was a girl in a white mask and white and blue silks, with reddish-brown hair—she so resembled Anne in her actions that Jonathan was tempted to believe—

A blare of music broke the tableau that concluded the spectacle. Sir Maurice Blaine, clapping vigorously, beamed upon Jonathan. "How did you like it, Hale?"

Jonathan smiled — that girl with the red hair—she had been looking directly at Jonathan . . . Lord Farquhar, pushing through the crowd, slapped young Blaine on the back. "Where did you pick up those players, Sir Maurice?" he inquired. "There are some fine-looking wenches in that outfit."

The sight of Farquhar reminded Jonathan that he was wasting valuable time. He edged away, quitting the ballroom as unobtrusively as possible, and hurried toward the stairway. He could not be delayed longer by this fruitless search for Tucker. He would go to his room, strap on his father's sword and steal out of the house alone and unseen. Without Tucker, he would reach Farquhar's residence less soon, perhaps, but he would find the place nevertheless—

He stopped abruptly in the doorway of his room. The lamp was lighted and bending over the desk under the wall-light was the dancing girl, now wearing a spangled, blue cape over her white silk dress and still concealing her features with the mask.

To Save Fuel

Maintain High Humidity In The Home And Be More Comfortable

A favourite summer complaint is "It's not the heat, but the humidity." In the winter, however, they become words of wisdom. By maintaining high humidity in the home, householders will be more comfortable even though temperatures are lower. On top of that, they will save many a shoveful of coal.

Even if it were not necessary to save every bit of fuel possible, health alone would indicate plenty of moisture in the air. In winter the air is dry and thirsty. It must obtain moisture from somewhere, and that somewhere is often from an individual's body and nasal passages. Doctors agree that there would be fewer colds and nose infections if humidity were higher in Canadian homes.

There are several simple things that will help to maintain higher humidity. Here are a few of them:

Keep the pan in the hot air furnace, if there is one, well-filled with water. If this is not sufficient, place cans of water just inside the registers, not where they'll show, but where they will do their work effectively.

After taking a bath, leave the hot water standing in the tub until it is cold. At the same time leave the bathroom door open so that the moisture can penetrate into the other rooms.

Potted plants make good humidifiers, if they're kept well-watered. Their porous pots literally ooze moisture.

Homes heated by stoves need have no humidifying problems. Just keep a kettle of water standing on the back of the stove.

WILL MAKE GOOD

The Toronto Globe and Mail says Prime Minister Churchill assures united air forces that they shall "beat the life out of industrial Germany." Nothing extravagant in this. Didn't he assure Mussolini some time ago that his African empire would be "torn to shreds"? And wasn't it?

JUST SAWS WOOD

The woodpecker is a realist. With it every knock is a boost. If it looks under a fold of bark it is for due cause. In the spring, it excavates a tidy nest, but only in a softened tree. Even then it will hide the chips just in case predatory eyes were watching. Mostly, it says nothing—and saws wood.

No One Too Busy

To Take Care Of The Ordinary Acts Of Courtesy

A lot of people have lapsed into small lacks of courtesy and blame it all on the war, says Adelaide Kerr, writing on Common Courtesy. Too busy with war work and problems, they say, to get this or that done.

Wheat Surplus

More Wheat Has Been Sold Since The War Began

A new peak in the carry-over stocks of wheat in Canada, the United States, Australia, and Argentina was reached at the close of the crop year 1942-43, states a recent issue of the Monthly Review of the Wheat Situation. These four countries had a combined surplus of 1,578,000,000 bushels of wheat, or 157,000,000 bushels more than they held a year ago. Four years of war have witnessed a steady rise in wheat-surplus stocks in the major exporting countries. This accumulation has sometimes been attributed to loss of export markets, but this, the Review points out, is not supported by statistics. In actual fact, this group of countries has disposed of about 400,000,000 bushels more wheat in the four war years than in the four years preceding the outbreak of hostilities, taking into account both exports and domestic utilization of wheat.

Every house-painter knows why there's always room at the top of the ladder: that's where the work is done.

Was Always Kind

Ralph Waldo Emerson Would Never Speak Harshly Of Anyone

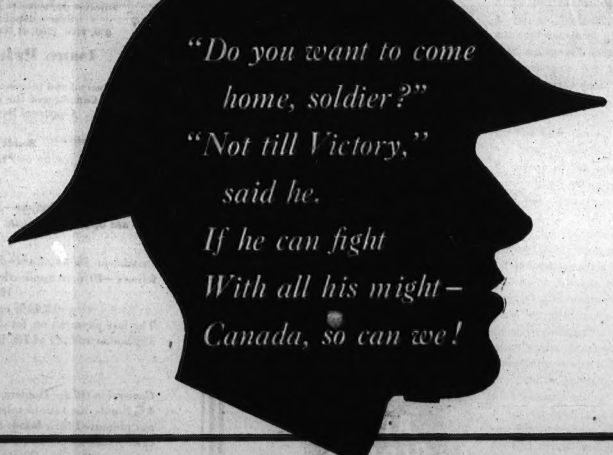

Ralph Waldo Emerson, gentle, kind-hearted gentleman, was always reluctant to speak harshly of his fellow beings. One day at the Emerson dinner table there was some mention of a woman who was well known as an inveterate seeker after celebrities. Mrs. Emerson said the woman was a snob. Emerson thought the term too harsh. His wife inquired how he would describe the lady. "I should say," replied the philosopher, speaking very slowly, "that she is a person having great sympathy with success." 2539

CREATING CRIMINALS

One law which makes criminals of most housewives is that which says that if one has a surplus of a rationed food, she cannot give it, or lend it, or trade it, much less sell it, to a neighbor or friend who is short of that particular ration. The womenfolk have been trading, lending and selling their surplus rationed goods since rationing began and they are going to continue to do so.

Most housewives break the rationing laws more or less frequently, with untroubled cosciences, and feel neither less patriotic nor less moral for doing so.—The Printed Word.

THE BURNING QUESTION

Part of an article in the latest issue of Maclean's Magazine, written by Blair Fraser, runs:

In Alberta the pay is higher and the work is said to be easier. However, the United Mine Workers have an application in for more pay and a mind to strike if they don't get it. The root of the trouble is that the miners agreed, soon after the war broke out, to accept the pre-war wage scale, plus cost-of-living bonus, for the duration and one year thereafter. They had the idea this policy would be pretty general, but they were the first workers in all Canada to sign such an agreement. When this arrangement had become compulsory the miners were chagrined to find other workers' wages "frozen" at levels which had greatly increased between the date of the miners' wage contract and the date of the wage-freezing order. As a final irony these latecomers also were getting the cost-of-living bonus.

If miners are so essential and all they want is more money, why not give them the raise and be done with it? Lots of people earn more than a miner, and with less work. But it is not as simple as that.

Mining is not only a vital war industry, it is also a permanent peacetime industry — a none-too-profitable enterprise which exploits a wasting asset and can therefore look forward with certainty to a growth, not a diminution, of its difficulties.

Mining is frequently unprofitable. Canadan mines lost money all through the depression, showing a profit in 1940 of only 1.7% and slumped to a loss again in 1941. Requests for a wage increase are opposed by the employers, who produce figures to back their plea "We can't afford it."

A PLACE TO PARK IN OLD HOME TOWN

Jack Eddy thinks the following poem is good going. He doesn't claim to have written it, but casts his vote for the farmer's wife who did compose it. It appeared in the Calgary Producer and has a message:

I'm just one of those country hicks
Who come from away out in the sticks
To voice my woe and make a plea
For all the other boobs like me.
We work like heck six days a week,
And when we're done we like to streak
To our home town to buy our eats,
And meet our neighbors on the street.
We can't take off no working day,
For if we do, there's hell to pay.
You folks in town don't do that way—
You do your buying every day.
And that's why I don't think it's right
To hog the streets on farmers' nights.
You've got your cars parked on the streets
Before we hicks sit down to eat.
For we must slop and feed the sows,
Squeeze all the juice from bossy cows,
Gather the eggs, coop up the hens,
Shave off the whiskers (if we're men);
Dress in overalls and calico—
Since wheat has gone so gosh darn low—
Crank up the flivver, give her juice,
Then start for town . . . but what's the use?
The streets are lined far up and down
With cars of folks who live in town,
Who seem to think it's quite a treat
To see the "rubes" strut up the street
With butter jars and eggs and cream.
But say . . . it takes a lot of steam
To lug that stuff six blocks or more,
You walk until your feet are sore;
Your shoulders ache, you're seein' red,
You wish that you were home in bed.
And then you spy that yellow paint
That's put just where the autos ain't.
There's two cars where there should be three—
They've straddled that there mark, you see.
It's our town, too, so please be fair;
We want to spend our nickels there.
You've watched us long enough to see
We need a parking place, by gee!

FIFTH VICTORY LOAN

We—not some of us, but all of us—must keep buying War Bonds and we must do it now. We can't put off until tomorrow what we should do today. There certainly will be no tomorrow for us, no tomorrow in which we could live, unless we win this war and win it decisively. And the only way in which we can win it is to pour our money, through War Bonds, into guns, planes, ships, ammunition and food and equipment for the men in our fighting forces.

The men in the forces are risking everything. If they lose, we are lost. they cannot win without the help we send them.

Millions of people in the war devastated areas have lost homes and treasures of all kinds. Do you want that to happen here? It will if we do not back up our men in the battle line.—Reprinted by Wheat Pool Budget from N. Y. Sun.

It is a mistake to speak of making sacrifices to buy War Bonds. It is no sacrifice. It is a safe investment.

Some there are who state the bonds will not be worth anything after the war is over. We do not agree with this, as Canada has never yet failed to honor her bonds. However, if that were true, your money would be no good either. Buy Bonds, to speed the day of Victory and hasten the day when the boys can return home.

TIM BUCK

Animated by the beliefs that he propounded, Tim Buck impressed his audience on Tuesday night with his sincerity in his cause, and with his skill as a speaker. As one listened, the fact that Mr. Buck was dealing with politics became almost unimportant—what was important was that his enthusiasm carried him beyond his party politics into the broader field of humanity. He asked the question so many people are asking today, "If we can have prosperity in wartime, why not during peacetime?" Whether or not his solutions were the correct ones for our social ills we cannot say, but we speak for his depth of feeling. His talk was liberally sprinkled with pertinent facts and quotations, but not always to the point. Some of his revelations on the work being done by the government on post-war reconstruction were startling, and should start the students thinking.

Naturally, Mr. Buck's solution to the economic ills was Communism, or Socialism as he preferred to call it, based on the Communist Manifesto.

It seems a pity that more of the student body were not present, for even though they might not have agreed with all that Mr. Buck had to say, they might have caught something of his humanitarian persuasions.—The Gateway.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Mrs. I. Irwin returned Sunday from an extended visit with relatives in Eastern Canada.

Mrs. Pete Evashen and small daughter Jeannette, of Nanton, arrived by bus Saturday to pay a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Potapoff. Before returning she will visit her brother Bill and family, also her sister Mabel and family in Blairmore.

E. F. Everitt, local barber, won the turkey drawn for at the Lundbreck supper on Wednesday night.

On Thursday afternoon of last week Mrs. Robert Littleton entertained the local Red Cross members at her home. The hostess and Mrs. Murphy were on the refreshment committee.

Pilot Officer Benton Murphy left Wednesday for Eastern Canada, and will shortly embark for overseas.

The turkey supper and dance sponsored by St. Joseph's church, of Cowley, and held in the Lundbreck community hall on Wednesday evening, was well attended. A very enjoyable time is reported.

On Thursday evening last the members of St. Joseph's church here gave a farewell party in honor of Father Leonard, who will be leaving shortly for Calgary, to which point he has been called. The early part of the evening was devoted to cards, progressive whist being played, with honors going to Mrs. D. Thibart and Mrs. G. Perry, for the ladies, and Paul Pelletier and Father Leonard for the gents. After an appetizing luncheon, Father Sullivan, of Coleman, spoke at some length, bringing greetings to the honor guest from the people of that town. This was followed by a witty speech by Father Anderson, of Bellevue, who also brought greetings and good wishes from friends there, after which Pilot Officer Benton Murphy, on the end of his leave-taking for overseas, was called on for a speech. Although impromptu, he neatly responded. Next in order was the presentation, on behalf of the people, of a purse of money by Father Sullivan to Father Leonard, who in well chosen words thanked the many friends who had brought him this honor and happiness.

Navy Marine Engines Made and Carried by C.P.R.

Helping to meet the urgent need of the Royal Canadian Navy for main marine engines and condensers to be used in escort vessels the Canadian Pacific Railway's Angus Shops in Montreal now has a steadily increasing flow of these "tools of war" coming from that section of the big shops which earlier completed the manufacture on schedule of more than 1,400 Valentine tanks, mainly for service in Russia.

The marine engine, pictured above on a C.P.R. depressed-centre flat car, prior to being prepared for shipment, weighs 89 tons, with condensers and bedplates included. Its size is demonstrated in the picture on the right of the workman, who is dwarfed by one of the huge connecting rods. Handling of the engines to their destination comes under the head of "high and wide" transportation, with special advice from the Canadian Pacific's engineering department being followed to squeeze the loads past bridges and other permanent installations.

As was the case with the Valentine tanks the marine engines are being made at the same time as Angus Shops handles the greatly increased repairs on locomotives and cars necessitated by wartime's heavier transportation load. All the jobs are being done without new buildings or extensive additions to the existing plant, a further demonstration of the versatility of the department headed by H. B. Bowen, chief of motive power and rolling stock.

To reach marine engine production as early as possible machining of parts and fabrication of sub-assemblies was started while the tank work still was proceeding at the big Canadian Pacific shops. As machine capacity and floor area were released from the tank contract they were utilized for the marine engine work. The first 10-ton engine bedplate was laid down a little over two weeks after completion of the last tank hull on the Valentine contract to earn the compliment in an official report that "the very best efforts were put forth by all persons responsible for this work".

INFORMATION

For Western Farmers Selling Feed Grains to Eastern Farmers

WHEAT • OATS • BARLEY

1. Wheat, up to 14 bu. per authorized acre and one car of oats and/or barley over the quota may be shipped.

2. Every seller must apply to the Canadian Wheat Board, Winnipeg, for a permit to ship each carload before loading for shipment.

3. Cars shipped will be inspected at Winnipeg for grade and dockage. On the basis of sample inspection, certificates will be issued by the Board of Grain Commissioners, for cars held "too full" for regular inspection. The Inspection Certificate establishes the grade and dockage.

4. Dockage up to 3% is allowed. Dockage above 1% cannot be charged for, and payment will not be made for the difference in weight between 1% and the actual dockage.

5. Elevator scale tickets or railway weights must accompany the bill of lading. Freight charges are to be paid by the farmer in Eastern Canada.

PRICE INFORMATION

On oats and barley the price per bushel to be charged the eastern farmer is the ceiling price (or the cash price if it is lower), basis in store at Fort William or Port Arthur.

GOVERNMENT SUBSIDIES AVAILABLE

As announced by the Dominion Government, the subsidy of 10c per bushel on oats and 15c per bushel on barley applies on oats and barley sold by any western farmer to a farmer or feed dealer east of Fort William-Port Arthur. Special application must be made to the Canadian Wheat Board, Winnipeg, in order to secure payment. Special forms for this purpose will be provided by the Canadian Wheat Board on request. These subsidies will also be paid on community sales between farmer and farmer in western Canada, provided the farmer delivers the grain over an elevator scale and meets other requirements of the Wheat Board.

FARMERS AND FARM WORKERS

If Your Farm Work has Slackened for the Winter, You Are Needed Elsewhere in Essential Employment

Highly essential work—very important in Canada's war effort and for the welfare of the Nation—is threatened with shortages of workers. One of the few sources of men available for other high priority jobs is those men on the farm who will not be needed at home during the Fall and Winter. Heavy needs must be met in many lines—producing vitally essential forest products; in base metal and coal mining, in food processing, in railway track maintenance. If you live on a farm and are not needed at home during the Fall and Winter, you are urged to answer this national appeal.

Farmers engaged in essential work during the off season will be allowed to return home when needed. Also, those on postponement under Mobilization Regulations will continue on postponement while in approved essential work during the slack season on the farm.

Please answer this vital call NOW.

The Future Of Agriculture

ANY PLANS FOR POST-WAR reconstruction and rehabilitation, both as applied to Canada and to the world at large, are of vital interest to those who live in the Western Provinces. The prosperity of the farmers of Western Canada always depends on general economic conditions in Canada, as well as on the demand in the world markets for grain and other agricultural products. At the present time the farmers are playing a most important part in the winning of the war. Agricultural products from the Prairies are helping to feed Canada's armed forces and her civilian population. In addition, great quantities of Canadian foodstuffs are being shipped to Britain and to the other United Nations who require it. There is also in storage great supplies of Western Canadian wheat which will be available for the starving people of the Occupied Countries when they are liberated. The vital need for farm products in wartime leaves no doubt as to the place of agriculture in Canada at present, but those concerned with this industry have much interest in what may be in store for it in the post-war years.

* * * * *

Chief Resource Is Agriculture

Dr. L. E. Kirk, dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of Saskatchewan, in a recent address on "Reconstruction and Rehabilitation," pointed out some interesting facts concerning these problems, as related to Western Canada. "The West," Dr. Kirk said, "is deeply concerned, not only with the outcome of the war, but with the international relations which will obtain after peace is established. Indeed, the future of this country rests mainly on a secure peace, the restoration of international trade and a generous policy of international co-operation after the war." While there is now some industrial development in the West and there are possibilities for further utilization of water-power, minerals and other natural resources, Dr. Kirk pointed out that in all three Prairie Provinces the agricultural resources greatly exceed all the other resources combined. There appears to be no doubt but that this should be a great food-producing area, but Dr. Kirk raised the question of markets and stated that without a great improvement in the standard of living in our own and other countries, great co-operation between nations, and guarantees for future peace, there is little hope for any great improvement in farming conditions here after the war.

Many Problems Are Expected

It is apparent that agriculture will share fully with other groups in having many difficult problems with which to deal after the war, and it is felt that in this, as in all other problems, some preparations should be made to meet the difficulties which will arise. The Canadian Federation of Agriculture has recently made a number of recommendations to the agricultural sub-committee of the parliamentary committee on post-war reconstruction. These recommendations advised, among other things, a "long-term national planning through a comprehensive marketing and production program for agriculture." It was further stated that "unless we are much better prepared to meet the dislocations of the post-war years than we were after the First Great War, a disastrous collapse in our agriculture is possible." The farmers of Western Canada withstood the trying conditions of drought and depression during the "thirties", and they are now carrying on steadfastly in spite of labour shortages and wartime restrictions, which present many difficulties. It is to be sincerely hoped that post-war conditions both here and abroad will be such as to provide sound prosperity for this great food-producing area of our Dominion.

Eye Disease

Research Into The Cause Of Blindness And Other Problems

Oxford University, London, is to create a Department of Opthalmology whose activities will include research into the causes of blindness and into the problems of eye disease, teaching, and the treatment of patients. Lord Nuffield has already presented £25,000 ($111,000) for the promotion of research in this field. The newly formed University Opthalmological Research Endowment Committee is aiming at raising a further £250,000 ($1,110,000) to build, equip and endow research laboratories at Oxford.

Mobile Baths

Being Used In The Industrial Centres Of Great Britain

Mobile baths are being used in some industrial centres in Great Britain where war movements of population have resulted in an inadequate number of baths. There are fifteen mobile bathrooms operating throughout the country, able to supply, free of charge and with towels and soap included, up to 2,000 baths a week.

To produce 1,000,000 pounds of war goods daily, an ordnance plant must haul in and out 18,000,000 pounds of material, enough to fill 500 freight cars.

When you're busy as most of us are, working to help win the war, it's doubly important to know what ALL-BRAN can do to relieve the cause of constipation due to the lack of the right amount of "bulk" in the diet. It's a "better way" than forcing yourself to take purgatives that offer only temporary relief.

Eat ALL-BRAN every morning. That's the simple means that thousands use to keep regular... NATURALLY! Enjoy it as a cereal or in muffins... drink plenty of water... and see what it does for you! Buy ALL-BRAN at your grocer's, sold in two convenient sizes. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

Among the men serving on the R.C.A.F. flying boat units from a Canadian east coast station, are many prairie lads, some of whom now have well earned decorations. A Distinguished Flying Medal recently went to Corporal Harold Knelson, second engineer, of Bladworth, Sask., who on a trip was first to sight an enemy submarine, which was engaged. Another D.F.M. went to Sergeant William Bedwell, first engineer, whose home is at Marchwell, Sask. He has spent a year and a half on anti-submarine patrol work.

R.C.A.F. fighter pilots still stand by within a few dozen miles of Kiska and wonder, "Where do we go from here?" But it wasn't always like that, if you can remember back a few months before the Japs turned tail and fled. Weather or no weather, the Canucks gave the rising sun boys no mercy whenever the fog lifted. For instance the records show that it lifted on July 26 last, and the boys went on three missions, scoring seven direct hits on Jap fighter strips. In this group enjoying the fun was Flying Officer A. C. Fanning of Dominion City, Manitoba.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS

Since September, 1939, tuberculosis has caused 24,000 deaths in Canada and 75,000 persons developed the disease, Dr. G. J. Wherrett, executive secretary of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, reported at the association's annual meeting in Toronto. Even if the present war lasted considerably longer, it was doubtful if the Canadian casualties would equal those caused by tuberculosis in the period mentioned, Dr. Wherrett declared.

Calling for an intensified campaign against tuberculosis, Doctor Wherrett said Canada was short 6,880 sanatorium beds for white patients and 1,390 beds for Indians. He said fluorographic surveys of the population would become general in all the Provinces as soon as the equipment and personnel were available. Doctor Wherrett suggested a five-year program against tuberculosis, and intensive educational work on a national scale.

Mortality rates for 1942, reported at the meeting, showed that Saskatchewan resumed first place with a combined white and Indian rate of 28.1 per 100,000 of population, with Ontario a close second, with a rate of 28.9. In the preceding year Ontario nosed Saskatchewan out of a lead held for many years.

The Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League this summer conducted a survey of the population of Saskatoon (43,000), in which 30,000 persons were fluorographed. Investigators discovered 28 open cases of tuberculosis, of which two were active spreaders. Ten thousand persons failed to take advantage of the free survey.

Strain Of Sawfly Resistant Wheat Is Developed

CALGARY.—One of the greatest forward steps ever taken in Western Canadian agriculture, successful development of a sawfly-resistant, rustless wheat, has been announced by the Dominion Experimental Station at Swift Current, it was revealed in Calgary.

Recognized as the most serious problem confronting wheat growers in southern Alberta and Saskatchewan, elimination of the sawfly is seen as an early possibility as result of the Swift Current development.

The announcement, made by L. B. Thomson, superintendent of the experimental station, indicated that while no seed is yet available, it is hoped to have seed for the new wheat strain in sufficient quantity to permit distribution in two or three years.

Started by H. J. Kemp, assistant superintendent, 13 years ago, development of the sawfly-resistant wheat is credited mainly to Arnold Platt, graduate of the University of Alberta, and his assistant, John Dore, who have worked on the problem for the past seven years. Platt, who graduated at the Alberta university in 1935, is already recognized as one of the outstanding agricultural scientists in the Dominion.

The new wheat which has a stalk too tough for the sawfly larvae to borne into, is expected to supplant "trap crop" control methods which have been developed in the Lethbridge area but which need a reduction in productive wheat acreage to be successful.

Urges Irrigation On Prairies For Post-War Plan

TORONTO.—Southern Alberta can add 550,000 acres and Saskatchewan 500,000 of land for mixed farming by means of available irrigation, John R. MacNicol, M.P. for Davenport riding, Toronto, informed the Kiwanis club in an address here.

More than 87,000 farmers deserted southern Saskatchewan land during the depression and engineers estimate that more than 500,000 acres of irrigated land can be reclaimed by means of a South Saskatchewan river project near Moose Jaw.

"That would re-establish 87,000 farmers in diversified farming in south Saskatchewan and would be cheap at any price," said Mr. MacNicol. "In southern Alberta water for irrigation comes from rivers originating in United States, and division of the volume of water allocated to United States and Canada is fixed by treaty and under the terms of the treaty both countries must construct reservoirs within a time limit. The United States has completed her reservoirs. Canada must act or lose most valuable water resources.

"The reservoir sites are available in Canada to conserve all the water allocated under the treaty. The construction of these reservoirs is a matbe begun immediately after the war," begun immediately after the war," said Mr. MacNicol.

"The cost of the whole additional southern Alberta irrigation program would be approximately $20,000,000 and the beneficial results tremendous. Three people live in each square mile of bald-headed prairie land but 29 on each square mile of irrigated land. That would add at least 26,000 farm population and as many more in service villages in southern Alberta."

In 1942 two factories in Alberta produced 900,000 bags of sugar and canning factories at Tabor and Lethbridge shipped 750,000 cases of canned corn, each case containing 24 tins, all grown on irrigated land, Mr. MacNicol said.

"There is a vision for Canadians of a west studded with sugar and canning factories with abbattoirs and pork packing plants, a rich and prosperous farming area instead of dried out and deserted farms and a post-war project that will provide many thousands of jobs with self-liquidating costs," said Mr. MacNicol.

CARDS IMPORTANT

Registration Certificates May Occupy Permanent Place In Canadian Life

OTTAWA.—National registration certificates, originally intended merely as a proof that Canadians had fulfilled requirements of the 1940 registration, are becoming increasingly important in the life of the average Canadian and it may be that they will gain a permanent place after the war.

Reports reaching here are that the provinces are finding the certificates particularly useful and there are some indications they may seek to have it made permanent.

There is no suggestion in official circles of a new registration; but if the certificates were to gain a permanent place in Canadian life it is likely they would have to be given some more permanent form than the present rather flimsy paper. Changes of address would probably have to be recorded on the certificates.

At present address changes are marked only on the master card and no change is made on the certificate which the individual carries.

ASK FOR BETTER FOOD

LONDON.—The Japanese government has been pressed to remedy deficiencies in rations of prisoners of war, Sir James Grigg, the secretary for war, told the House of Commons.

Says A Terrific Fight Ahead For United Nations

WASHINGTON.—Members of the house of representatives heard a grim and graphic account of the war in a secret session in the auditorium of the library of congress, leaving the white marble building convinced that a terrific struggle lies ahead of the United Nations.

The congressmen heard Gen. Geo. C. Marshall, chief of the staff of the United States army; War Secretary Henry Stimson and other military leaders give detailed accounts of the fighting on every battlefield. They left the building visibly sobered by what they had heard, with some of them determined to combat public optimism through urging the freer release of information by the war and navy departments.

The session was an off-the-record one, but house members reported the military men supplied this information as part of the global picture:

1. The task of defending them makes it difficult, at this time, to think of using Russian bases in Siberia to strike at the Japanese, even with Russia's consent. Japan has 500,000 troops within a short distance of Siberia.

2. The Germans are building up their fighter strength which today is their first line of defence, just as the fighter squadrons of the R.A.F. were Britain's shield in 1940.

3. Allied air forces in the Pacific are knocking down Japanese planes at a satisfactory rate but not as fast as Japan is building them. Japan's air force is increasing in numbers, despite battle losses.

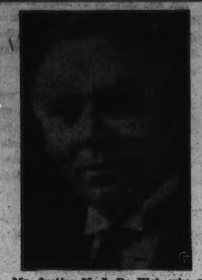

4. Japan's war effort is not being impeded by a manpower shortage; in fact the problem of mobilizing her population is not as serious as the one existing in the United States.

5. The over-all problem of transporting supplies is the No. 1 brake on the Allied war effort. The airplane is still a long distance from superseding the ship.

"Gen. Marshall gave us the impression that we are in one hell of a war," said one member.

HONOR FOR PILOT

Missing Australian Who Saved Crew Members Won Victoria Cross

LONDON.—An Australian bomber pilot who disdained taking evasive action to avoid enemy attack during his 52 operational flights and now is reported missing after an heroic attempt to save his crew from falling into Japanese hands, been awarded the 75th Victoria ss of the war.

He is Flt. Lt. William Newton, 24, of the Royal Australian air force and the citation said his "many examples of conspicuous bravery rarely have been equalled."

Leading an attack last March, his bomber burst into flames. Newton wanted to get the crew as far as possible from enemy positions so he flew along the shoreline until he was forced to land the blazing aircraft in the water. Two members of the crew extricated themselves but Newton is missing.

INDIAN EXTREMIST

NEW YORK.—The Tokyo radio said that Japan had set up a "provisional government of India" in Singapore under Subhas Chandra Bose, Indian extremist who fled from India in 1941 when he was ordered to trial for subversion.

Allied Bombing Has Put Enemy On Defensive

LONDON. — Half of Germany's leading cities now have been severely damaged by Allied bombings, an R.A.F. commentator said, 17 of them so badly they are more of a liability than an asset to the war effort, tying up more men in repairs than in production.

Fourteen additional cities were said to have been damaged heavily by blitz-period standards, with Hamburg having received in acreage damage to its industrial machine equivalent to 60 Coventrys, Cologne to 17 Coventrys, Duesseldorf 12 and Essen 10.

The Nazis radical swing to the defensive in the air war was reflected in the increase of one-third in her fighter force since January—at the cost of bomber production—and the relation of this to the Britain-based air campaign was indicated in the fact the proportion of the force on the Russian front dropped from one-third in January to less than one-fifth at present, the spokesman said.

Germany's defensive position is also emphasized in the fact she let 100 days pass at the height of the raiding season, between July 9 and Oct. 17, without dropping a bomb by daylight on England. In contrast during the same period of 1940 the Germans made 20,000 daylight sorties (individual plane flights) over Britain, and in the same period this year the R.A.F. made 37,000 daylight sorties—largely by fighters—and the American air force made 24,000.

BRING PROSPERITY

Economic Come-Back Of Liberated Countries Follows Allied Advances

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt pointed to North Africa as an example of the affluence and self-sufficiency that follows in the wake of advancing Allied armies.

In the early days of the Tunisian campaign, soon after the Allied landings in French North Africa, it was necessary to ship thousands of tons of food for the civilian population but today this vast area is self-supporting and the French authorities are beginning to accumulate food reserves for distribution in metropolitan France after its liberation.

Like North Africa, Sicily had been bled white, the president told a press conference. The German occupation forces seized at least five-eighths of the island's produce and years of Fascist government had reduced yields and acreage.

But today, he continued, the Sicilian farmers are beginning to realize they can keep 100 per cent. of their crops and, instead of being robbed, they can sell their surplus production to Allied authorities.

The economic come-back of North Africa was revealed in a series of figures, comparing food shipments for military purposes before and after the completion of the Tunisian campaign in May, 1943.

DR. R. D. SINCLAIR,
Dean of The Faculty of Agriculture, University of Alberta.

Friend of Alberta Farmers

Recommends Victory Bonds

to you . . .

DR. R. D. SINCLAIR has combined practical and academic knowledge of agriculture in a unique degree. Born on a farm near Innisfail, Alberta, he was one of the early students of the School of Agriculture at Olds, and was a member of the first class to graduate from the College of Agriculture at the University of Alberta in 1918.

After spending some time in editorial work with a well known farm magazine, Dr. Sinclair joined the staff of the Department of Animal Husbandry of the University in 1922. He obtained his Master of Science degree at Iowa State College and later went to Aberdeen, Scotland to secure his Ph.D.

Dr. Sinclair was appointed Dean of the University's Faculty of Agriculture in 1942. He is recognized as Canada's outstanding authority on swine production and is known personally to thousands of Alberta Farmers.

Dr. Sinclair urges farmers to buy Victory Bonds. He says:

"During the past four years of war the products of Alberta farms have made a substantial contribution to the food supply of the United Nations. But the need for weapons of war as well as food is still supremely urgent; one without the other will not finish the job.

"The Fifth Canadian Victory Loan provides further opportunity to make a financial investment in the war effort. The Bonds bought now will help to hold the farm lands of Alberta for Alberta farmers and, at the same time, provide the reserve capital which can be used for improvements when victory comes.

"As one born and raised on an Alberta farm, I appeal to the farmers of the Province to buy Bonds of the new Victory Loan to the limit of their financial resources."
